

LESSON PLAN FOR WHOLESOME SEX EDUCATION

FOR CHILDREN OF ALL AGES

Lesson Plan: Understanding Private and Public Body Parts

Subject: Early Childhood Education

Age Group: 2-4 Years (KG to Nur 2)

Duration: 15-20 minutes (integrated into daily routine activities like bath time or dressing)

Objectives:

By the end of the lesson, children will be able to:

1. Identify private and public body parts.
2. Understand the difference between private and public.
3. Learn the correct names for private body parts.
4. Recognize who is allowed and not allowed to see or touch their private parts.
5. Understand the importance of reporting inappropriate touch to a trusted adult.

Materials Needed:

- Age-appropriate anatomical diagrams (cartoon-like images)
- Simple, catchy songs or rhymes about body safety
- Bath toys or dressing props (for interactive teaching)

Key Vocabulary:

- Private parts (penis, vulva, buttocks, chest)
- Public parts (hands, feet, arms, legs)
- Private
- Public

Introduction (5 minutes):

1. Hook: Start with a fun, simple song about body parts that includes both private and public parts.
 - Example: "Head, Shoulders, Knees, and Toes," modified to include "chest" and "buttocks" in a non-explicit, child-friendly manner.

Direct Instruction (5 minutes):

1. Private vs. Public:
 - Use a simple diagram or a doll to show body parts.
 - Explain that some parts of our body are private and should be covered with clothes (private parts), and others are public and can be seen by everyone (public parts).
 - Teach the correct names for private parts (penis, vulva, buttocks, chest) using simple language and a calm tone.

Interactive Activity (5 minutes):

1. During Bath Time or Dressing:
 - While bathing or dressing the child, point out which parts are private and which are public.
 - Use statements like, "This is your penis/vulva, it's a private part, and we keep it covered with clothes."
 - Emphasize that only certain people (like Mummy or Daddy) can help them with private parts, but no one else should see or touch them.

Song/Rhyme Time (5 minutes):

1. Teach a Body Safety Song:
 - Create a simple rhyme to reinforce the concept of private parts and body safety.
 - Example:
My body belongs to me, it belongs to only me,
It is mine and not yours, it belongs to only me

Role-Playing (5 minutes):1. Reporting Inappropriate Touch:

- Role-play scenarios where the child practices saying "No" and telling a trusted adult if someone tries to touch their private parts.
- Use a friendly and playful tone to ensure the child is comfortable and engaged.

Conclusion (5 minutes):1. Recap:

- Reinforce the importance of understanding private and public body parts.
- Remind the child to always tell Mummy or Daddy if anyone touches their private parts.

2. Praise and Encouragement:

- Praise the child for participating and learning. Reinforce that it's always good to talk to parents about their bodies.

Assessment:

- Observation: Watch for the child's ability to identify private and public body parts during daily routines.
- Interaction: Engage the child in simple questions about what they learned and ensure they can respond appropriately.

Extension Activity:

- Body Safety Storybook: Read an age-appropriate story about body safety and discuss it with the child.

References:

- CASRHA Foundation Wholesome-sex-education-training Manual
- "Your Body Belongs to You" by Cornelia Spelman
- National Child Traumatic Stress Network (NCTSN) resources on body safety for young children

Teacher's Notes:

- Always maintain a calm, gentle, and positive tone when discussing body parts and safety.
- Be honest and use correct terminology to build trust and understanding.
- Integrate these lessons naturally into daily routines to reinforce the concepts.
- Listen attentively to the child's questions and respond sincerely, ensuring to follow up if needed.

Teaching Ages 2 to 4 years Sex Education

- At this age, they are aware of their body parts, use the opportunity to teach them about their private and public parts
- Let them know what private and public means
- Mention to them the real names of the private and public parts
- Let them know what categories of persons that must NOT see or touch their private parts.
- A good time to teach this is when bathing them or preparing them for school.
- Teach them to report to Mummy or Daddy if anyone touches their private part, regardless of the person's intention.
- When you do this, you are teaching them how to speak up and as a result equipping them against child abusers and molesters.
- Don't ever shut up a child. Childhood is the most innocent period in life.
- They learn better with songs and rhymes, you have the gift, compose for them.
- Be playful when teaching, they learn better in a playful atmosphere.

Lesson Plan: Understanding Our Bodies and Healthy Habits

Subject: Health Education

Grade Level: Nur. 2 to Pry. 2 (Ages 5-8)

Duration: 45-60 minutes

Objectives:

By the end of the lesson, students will be able to:

1. Identify basic parts of the human body.
2. Understand the importance of personal hygiene.
3. Recognize healthy habits and why they matter.
4. Feel comfortable asking questions about their bodies.

Materials Needed:

- Whiteboard and markers
- Anatomical diagrams of the human body (age-appropriate)
- Hygiene handouts (brushing teeth, washing hands, etc.)
- Storybook about healthy habits
- Question box (for anonymous questions)

Key Vocabulary:

- Body parts (head, arms, legs, stomach, etc.)
- Hygiene
- Germs
- Healthy habits

Introduction (10 minutes):

1. Hook: Start with a fun song or rhyme about body parts, such as "Head, Shoulders, Knees, and Toes."
2. Objective Setting: Explain that today's lesson will be about learning more about our bodies and how to take care of them ourselves.

Direct Instruction (15 minutes):

1. Body Parts:
 - Use a large diagram or a life-sized model to point out and name basic body parts.
 - Encourage students to touch their own heads, shoulders, knees, etc., as you name them.
2. Personal Hygiene:
 - Discuss why it's important to keep our bodies clean.
 - Talk about habits like brushing teeth, washing hands, and bathing.
 - Use pictures or a short video to show the correct way to wash hands and brush teeth.

Story Time (10 minutes):

1. Read Aloud: Read a storybook about healthy habits, such as "Germs Are Not for Sharing" by Elizabeth Verdick.
2. Discussion: After reading, ask students what they learned from the story. Encourage them to share any habits they already practice at home.

Interactive Activity (10 minutes):

1. Hygiene Practice:
 - Have a practice session where students pretend to wash their hands with imaginary soap and water.
 - Teach them to sing "Happy Birthday" twice while washing their hands to ensure they wash long enough.

Question and Answer Session (5-10 minutes):

1. Anonymous Questions:

- Use the question box to address any questions students have about their bodies or hygiene.
- Answer honestly and age-appropriately. If you don't know an answer, promise to find out and get back to them.

Conclusion (5 minutes):

1. Recap: Summarize the main points about body parts and personal hygiene.
2. Encouragement: Praise students for their participation and remind them that it's good to ask questions and take care of their bodies.

Assessment:

- Formative: Observe students' participation in activities and discussions.
- Summative: Provide a simple worksheet with body parts to label and a matching activity for hygiene items.

Extension Activity:

- Healthy Habits Chart: Send home a chart for students to track their daily hygiene habits (e.g., brushing teeth, washing hands) for a week.

Homework:

- Family Discussion: Ask students to talk with their family about what they learned and share their healthy habits chart.

References:

- CASRHA Foundation Wholesome-sex-education-training Manual

- Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) on hygiene for kids

Teacher's Notes:

- At this age they are having physical development and vulnerable to pedophiles. You are to teach them to learn how take care of their bodies themselves (like bathing) without the help of an adult.
- Be patient and listen attentively to students' questions.
- Provide honest answers and ensure to follow up on any questions you couldn't answer immediately.
- Use visual aids and interactive activities to maintain engagement.
- Build trust by keeping promises and being consistent with your words and actions.

Ages 5 – 8 years

- At this stage, try to build on the previous years' information and try to make more explanation.
- At this stage, they are usually very inquisitive, listen to them and sincerely answer their questions.
- Any question you are not sure of the answer, sincerely tell them you don't have the answer but that you will find out and get back to them. NEVER TELL THEM A LIE!

Try not to break your promises to them. They are very sensitive to unfaithfulness at these ages.

Lesson Plan: Understanding Puberty

Subject: Health Education

Grade Level: Pry. 3 - JSS 1 (Ages 8-12)

Duration: 60 minutes

Objectives:

By the end of the lesson, students will be able to:

1. Understand the physical and emotional changes during puberty.
2. Identify and discuss changes specific to boys and girls.
3. Recognize that their experiences are normal and part of growing up.
4. Feel comfortable discussing their bodies and emotions.

Materials Needed:

- Whiteboard and markers
- Age-appropriate anatomical diagrams
- Handouts on puberty and personal hygiene
- Question box (for anonymous questions)

Key Vocabulary:

- Puberty
- Hormones
- Menstruation
- Erections
- Wet dreams
- Attraction
- Sexual urges

Introduction (10 minutes):

1. Hook: Start with a general discussion about growing up and ask if anyone has noticed changes in themselves or friends.
2. Objective Setting: Explain that today's lesson will cover what happens to our bodies and feelings as we grow older, focusing on being healthy and understanding these changes.

Direct Instruction (20 minutes):

1. What is Puberty?: Explain puberty as a natural process of growing up, where children's bodies start to change into adult bodies. Use simple, clear language.
 - For Girls: Discuss menstruation, breast development, and the onset of sexual feelings. Use diagrams to show what happens during a menstrual cycle.
 - For Boys: Discuss voice changes, facial hair, wet dreams, and erections. Explain that morning erections and erections in the presence of others are normal and nothing to be ashamed of.

Gender-Specific Breakout Sessions (15 minutes):

1. Girls:
 - Discuss menstruation in detail, addressing common myths (e.g., "You can still do sports and swim during your period").
 - Talk about managing periods, including using pads and tampons.
 - Emphasize the uniqueness of each body and that it's normal for everyone to develop at different rates.
2. Boys:
 - Explain wet dreams and that they are a normal part of puberty.
 - Discuss the reasons for early morning erections and erections when feeling attracted to someone.
 - Emphasize the uniqueness of each body and that everyone develops at different rates.

Guided Discussion (10 minutes):

1. Feelings and Emotions: Talk about how it's normal to have new feelings, including attraction to others. Discuss the importance of respect and consent in relationships.
2. Personal Hygiene: Discuss the importance of daily hygiene routines, including bathing, using deodorant, and changing clothes regularly.

Interactive Activity (10 minutes):

1. Question Box: Provide a box where students can anonymously submit questions about puberty. Select and answer as many as time allows, ensuring answers are age-appropriate and honest.

Conclusion (5 minutes):

1. Recap: Summarize key points about puberty, emphasizing that it's a normal part of growing up.
2. Encouragement: Remind students that everyone goes through these changes and it's okay to talk to trusted adults if they have questions or concerns.

Assessment:

- Formative: Observe students' participation in discussions and their comfort level during the Q&A session.
- Summative: Provide a simple quiz or worksheet at the end of the week to review key points about puberty.

Extension Activity:

- Parent-Child Discussion Guide: Send home a guide for parents to help them continue the conversation about puberty with their children.

Homework:

- Reflection Journal: Ask students to write a short reflection on what they learned about puberty and any questions they still have.

References:

- CASRHA Foundation Wholesome-sex-education-training Manual
- KidsHealth.org
- American Academy of Pediatrics

Teacher's Notes:

- Approach the topic with sensitivity and openness.
- Be prepared for a range of reactions and questions.
- Maintain a supportive and non-judgmental environment to foster trust and openness.
- Ensure to provide factual and honest information to avoid losing students' trust.

Ages 8 – 12 years

- Puberty is starting, especially in girls. Teach them all they need to know about puberty, including the feelings of attraction for the opposite gender.
- Talk to them about sexual urges. It is a sign that they are biologically normal.
- Talk to boys about wet dreams and what it signifies.
- Talk to the boys about early morning erections and erections whenever they are in the company of girls.
- Talk to girls about menstruation and help her to demystify all the myths and wrong ideologies around it.
- This means that you must equip yourself with the right information.
- Talk to them about the uniqueness of their body, their shape and stature.

Be sincere with your discussions with them. You will lose their trust the day they find out you haven't been truthful to them.

Lesson Plan: Navigating Teen Years and Understanding Sexual Health

Subject: Health Education

Grade Level: JSS 2 – SSS 1 (Ages 13-15)

Duration: 60-75 minutes

Objectives:

By the end of the lesson, students will be able to:

1. Understand the physical and emotional changes during adolescence.
2. Discuss the importance of sexual health and the risks associated with sexually transmitted infections (STIs).
3. Recognize the impact of pornography on mental and emotional health.
4. Use mobile devices and the internet responsibly.
5. Discuss the topic of masturbation openly and understand its implications.

Materials Needed:

- Whiteboard and markers
- Age-appropriate anatomical diagrams
- Handouts on STIs, HIV/AIDS, and healthy internet use
- A question box (for anonymous questions)
- Projector and computer (for videos and presentations)

Key Vocabulary:

- Hormones
- Adolescence
- Sexual health
- Sexually transmitted infections (STIs)
- HIV/AIDS
- Pornography
- Masturbation

Introduction (10 minutes):

1. Hook: Start with an open-ended question: "What are some changes you've noticed as you've grown older?" Allow students to share their experiences.
2. Objective Setting: Explain that today's lesson will cover important topics about growing up, including sexual health and the responsible use of technology.

Direct Instruction (15 minutes):

1. Adolescent Changes:
 - Discuss how hormonal changes affect their bodies and emotions.
 - Talk about body image sensitivity and the importance of positive self-esteem.
 - Emphasize the normalcy of preferring to spend time with peers or alone.
2. Sexual Health:
 - Discuss the basics of sexual health, focusing on the importance of understanding and preventing STIs, including HIV/AIDS.
 - Use diagrams to explain how STIs are transmitted and ways to protect oneself.

Interactive Discussion (15 minutes):

1. Pornography:
 - Explain the effects of pornography on emotional, psychological, and mental health.
 - Discuss how exposure to pornography can impact their understanding of relationships and sexuality.

2. Healthy Use of Mobile Devices and the Internet:

- Talk about the pros and cons of using smartphones and the internet.
- Emphasize the importance of making safe and healthy decisions online.
- Introduce the concept of digital citizenship and how the fear of God or ethical values can guide their online behavior.

Group Activity (15 minutes):

1. Small Group Discussion:

- Break students into small groups to discuss their thoughts and feelings about the topics covered.
- Encourage them to share their views on how to manage peer pressure and maintain a healthy lifestyle.

Sensitive Topic Handling (10 minutes):

1. Masturbation:

- Address the topic of masturbation openly, explaining that it's common and many teenagers experience it.
- Discuss the importance of sexual purity and seeking a balance that aligns with their personal or religious beliefs.
- Emphasize that talking about it and bringing it to light can help manage their feelings and behaviors.

Question and Answer Session (10 minutes):

1. Anonymous Questions:

- Use the question box to address anonymous questions from students.
- Answer questions honestly and without judgment to build trust and openness.

Conclusion (5 minutes):

1. Recap: Summarize the key points discussed about sexual health, responsible technology use, and the importance of open communication.
2. Encouragement: Remind students that it's okay to seek help and talk to trusted adults about their concerns.

Assessment:

- Formative: Observe students' participation and engagement during discussions and activities.
- Summative: Provide a reflective journal assignment where students can write about what they learned and any remaining questions they have.

Extension Activity:

- Parent-Child Discussion Guide: Send home a guide to help parents continue the conversation about sexual health and responsible internet use with their teens.

Homework:

- Reflection Journal: Ask students to write a short reflection on what they learned about adolescence and sexual health, including any questions they still have or new insights gained.

References:

- CASRHA Foundation Wholesome-sex-education-training Manual
- Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) on STIs and HIV/AIDS
- American Academy of Pediatrics on Adolescent Health

Teacher's Notes:

- Approach the topic with sensitivity, openness, and a non-judgmental attitude.

- Be prepared for a range of reactions and questions, and maintain a supportive environment.
- Encourage laughter and openness during group discussions to make students feel more comfortable.
- Provide factual and honest information to maintain students' trust.

Teenagers

- Many of them at these stage will be struggling with the effects of the upsurge of their sexual hormone.
- They are more sensitive about how they look, what they hear, especially complements from their friends, and they will prefer to spend time more with their peers or alone.
- If you are the aggressive type or someone who appears too serious, they will not like you.
- But when you are soft and friendly, they will be more comfortable with you.
- The easiest way to get them is to give a nice complement about them.
- They often have secrets, you will need to give them listening ears and do not express surprise when they open up their deep secrets.
- Teach them about sex, sexually transmitted infections, HIV/AIDS
- Talk about the effects of watching pornography on their emotional, psychological, mental and spiritual health.
- Be soft in your approach and make it a dialogue. Allow them to respond to you. Don't be the only one talking.
- If you are discussing this in a group, allow them to laugh about it. It will make them more open.
- Talk about the healthy use of mobile devices, including smartphones.
- Let them know that the internet contains good and bad, and teach them how the fear of God can help them to take healthy decisions
- Raise the subject of masturbation with them.
- Don't wear a judgmental face. Remember that unless they open up to you, you won't be able to help them.
- Research has shown that up to 90% of boys and up to 70% of girls will masturbate before the age of 19 years.
- Let them know it is not peculiar to them alone but more importantly, let them know that it is one of the reasons why they are not living the way God wants them to live.
- When they open up, lead them to ask God for a sexually pure heart like we have discussed in Module 2, and make them be accountable to you.
- Masturbation, like every other sin, thrives in the dark. Once it is exposed, it loses its power over them.

Lesson Plan: Understanding Relationships and Sexual Purity for Young Adults

Subject: Health and Personal Development

Grade Level: High School (Ages 16-18)

Duration: 60-75 minutes

Objectives:

By the end of the lesson, students will be able to:

1. Understand the physical and emotional changes during adolescence.
2. Recognize the importance of sexual purity and the value of virginity until marriage.
3. Identify behaviors that can increase sexual pressure and how to avoid them.
4. Learn about the role of modesty and self-respect in relationships.
5. Understand the importance of self-control and managing sexual urges.

Materials Needed:

- Whiteboard and markers
- Handouts on sexual purity and self-respect
- Question box (for anonymous questions)
- Projector and computer (for videos and presentations)

Key Vocabulary:

- Sexual development
- Virginity
- Hymen
- Sexual urges
- Modesty
- Self-control
- Relationships

Introduction (10 minutes):

1. Hook: Start with a thought-provoking question: "What does it mean to have a healthy relationship?" Allow students to share their thoughts.
2. Objective Setting: Explain that today's lesson will cover important aspects of relationships, sexual development, and the value of sexual purity.

Direct Instruction (15 minutes):

1. Physical and Emotional Changes:
 - Discuss the visible external sexual development in both males and females.
 - Emphasize that these changes are normal and natural.
2. Modesty and Self-Respect:
 - Explain how certain parts of the body can attract the opposite sex when exposed.
 - Discuss the importance of modesty and how covering oneself preserves value and self-respect.

Gender-Specific Breakout Sessions (20 minutes):

Female Young Adults:

1. Virginity and Self-Worth:
 - Discuss the importance of virginity and the value of waiting until marriage.
 - Reassure those who may have made mistakes that they can always find forgiveness and start anew.
2. Understanding the Hymen:
 - Explain what the hymen is and how it can be broken by various activities, not just sexual intercourse.

3. Managing Sexual Urges:

- Talk about sexual urges and the normalcy of having feelings for sex.
- Encourage maintaining a pure heart and exercising self-control.
- Discuss behaviors to avoid that can increase sexual pressure, such as intimate relationships with boys, consuming romantic media, and pornography.

Male Young Adults:

1. Virginity and Masculinity:

- Discuss the importance of remaining a virgin until marriage and how true masculinity involves respecting and protecting girls.
- Encourage them to support and protect girls from sexual abuse or misuse.

2. Managing Sexual Urges:

- Talk about sexual urges and the normalcy of having feelings for sex.
- Encourage maintaining a pure heart and exercising self-control.
- Discuss behaviors to avoid that can increase sexual pressure, such as intimate relationships with girls, consuming romantic media, and pornography.

Group Activity (15 minutes):

1. Role-Playing Scenarios:

- Divide students into small groups and give them scenarios to role-play how to manage situations involving peer pressure, romantic interest, or sexual advances.
- Each group presents their scenario and solution, followed by a group discussion on the best approaches to maintaining sexual purity and self-respect.

Question and Answer Session (10 minutes):

1. Anonymous Questions:

- Use the question box to address anonymous questions from students.
- Answer honestly and without judgment to build trust and openness.

Conclusion (5 minutes):

1. Recap: Summarize the main points about physical and emotional changes, the importance of sexual purity, and the value of self-respect and modesty.
2. Encouragement: Remind students that it's okay to have questions and seek guidance, and that maintaining sexual purity is a personal and valuable choice.

Assessment:

- Formative: Observe students' participation in discussions and activities.
- Summative: Provide a reflective journal assignment where students can write about what they learned and any remaining questions they have.

Extension Activity:

- Parent-Child Discussion Guide: Send home a guide to help parents continue the conversation about relationships and sexual purity with their teens.

Homework:

- Reflection Journal: Ask students to write a short reflection on what they learned about relationships and sexual purity, including any questions they still have or new insights gained.

References:

- CASRHA Foundation Wholesome-sex-education-training Manual
- Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) on Adolescent Health
- "Pure" by Rebecca St. James (a book on maintaining sexual purity)

Teacher's Notes:

- Approach the topic with sensitivity and openness.

- Be honest and use correct terminology to build trust and understanding.
- Encourage students to ask questions and share their thoughts in a non-judgmental environment.
- Reinforce the importance of self-respect, modesty, and the value of waiting until marriage.

Female Young Adults and Relationships

They have more visible external sexual development that often make they extremely attractive to the male gender.

Use this opportunity to let them know the parts of their body that when exposed can get boys or men excessively attracted to them.

Teach them to know that the more they cover, the more value they preserve.

Then, talk about their virginity and why it is extremely important to remain a virgin till marriage.

If they have made mistake, don't judge them, lead them back to God and reassure them of God's love.

Tell them about their hymen, that it can be broken by any penetrating object including fingers.

Teach them about sexual urges that it is normal to have feelings for sex but that with their pure heart, they have grace to put the urge or feeling under control.

Use the opportunity to teach them not to increase their sexual pressure by staying too intimate with the opposite gender, being in a romantic relationship with a boy, reading romantic novels and magazines, watching romantic movies or pornography, etcetera.

Reassure them that they do not need to be in a hurry to start a relationship, they should allow themselves to grow and properly mature enough to take such decision.

Male Young Adults and Relationships

They have started having a physique that makes them attractive to the female gender.

Ladies at this stage naturally want to hang around them.

Don't try to prevent them from enjoying the company of the opposite sex, rather introduce sexual purity to them.

Be a friend to them and the girls that come around them;

The more influence you have on the girls too, the more the boys will listen to your instruction

Boys are often pushed to act like a man, by going to woo a girl or even involve in sexual immoralities.

Teach them that the best way to be men is to remain virgin till marriage.

Teach them that being a man means protecting the girls from being sexually abused or used.

Teach them about sexual urges that it is normal to have feelings for sex but that with their pure heart, they have grace to put the urge under control.

Let them know that everyone has sexual urges, including yourself.

Use the opportunity to teach them not to increase their sexual pressure by staying too intimate with the opposite gender, being in a romantic relationship with a girl, watching romantic movies or pornography, etcetera.
